

Delayed Gratification

Launched in January 2011, Delayed Gratification is the world's first Slow Journalism magazine. It champions perspective, hindsight and context.

Always proud to be 'Last to Breaking News', Delayed Gratification returns to stories after the dust has settled to give the final word on the events that really mattered.

It's a beautiful quarterly publication filled with insightful long-form journalism, stories the mainstream media missed and eye-catching infographics.

Praised by The Economist, QI, The New Yorker and The Guardian amongst others, Delayed Gratification makes a unique and thoughtful Christmas present for anyone who enjoys magazines.

Reviews

- "A leisurely (and contrary) look backwards over the previous three months" The Guardian
- "A counterpoint to the speedy news feeds we've grown accustomed to" Creative Review
- "A slower, more reflective type of journalism" The Economist
- "Perhaps we could all get used to this Delayed idea..." The Today Programme

Details

- Price: £12, subscriptions start from £48
- Frequency: Quarterly (March, June, September, December)
- Pagination: 120 pages, advertising-free

Awards

- PPA Innovation of the Year
- Information is Beautiful award
- BSME Independent Editors of the Year

Website: slow-journalism.com

Facebook: facebook.com/delayedgratification

Twitter: @dgquarterly

Instagram: @dgquarterly

Website: slow-journalism.com

Facebook: facebook.com/delayedgratification

Twitter: @dgquarterly

Instagram: @dgquarterly